Rome Bound Plane Making Headway

Believed Ship Well On Way To Destination, No Word Received.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The Rome-bound plane, "Pathfinder," aided by tail winds and near-perfect flying weather, is presumably approaching Europe early today, flying high and with speed noticeably increased by a lightened fuel load.

The craft, piloted by Roger Q. Williams, former aviation instructor in the army, and Lewis A. Yancey, master mariner, is unreported since 8:50 yesterday morning when an escort ship reported the plane "going fine" 75 miles off the Portland lightship. No anxiety is felt, however, as trans-Atlantic fliers usually fly high and the "Pathfinder" had a "ceiling" of 6,000 feet which would take them out of hearing and sight of ships at sea. The plane carried no radio.

Yancey, navigator, estimated that flying time for the 4232 miles would be 45 to 48 hours, bringing them to Rome early Wednesday morning.

Rosston Road Is To Be Completed Without Delay

Work of Building Drainage Facilities Started Monday.

TO GRAVEL ROUTE

Road To Grade Already With Exception of Two Short Stretches.

The highway commission Monday morning threw a force of men on the Rosston road to complete gravel surfacing and placing the road in shape for use before the cotton and melon harvest is on hand. Completion of the drainage structures on the road is going on and grading of the two short stretches not yet brought to grade will be started at once.

The longest stretch ungraded and one of the largest drainage structures to be erected will be at the east end of Third street, in this city, and there a force of men are busy. For most of the way the road is to grade and many of the drainage structures already built, and upon the completion of the work at this end the job of surfacing the highway will be started.

With the completion of this road to the county line, the finishing of work on the Lewisville-Stamps road and the road to Washington, citizens of this section will have cause to be thankful, and the business men of this city have opportunity to extend Hope's trade territory to points not now completely served.

El Dorado Barber Dead Following Explosion

EL DORADO, July 9.—(AP)—Injuries suffered in an explosion on the banks of the Ouachita river last night today proved fatal to Walton H. Paris, 53-year-old El Dorado barber.

Coroner Barton left here early this morning for the scene of the blast, cause of which is unknown. The man's hands were torn from his arms and his body badly burned. He was brought to a hospital here but died a few hours later.

Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Jewell were Little Rock visitors yesterday, guests of the Albert Pike hotel while in the city.

Eleanor Early, author of the widely acclaimed NEA serials "Orchid" and "Whirlwind," has written a dramatic story of heartache and happiness, tragedy and triumph in her forthcoming serial, "The Shining Talent."

This sparkling new serial, which starts in the Hope Star July 10, is the story of a beautiful young college graduate who found herself confronted with a choice between marriage and a career.

The heroine sacrificed love for her ambition and rose from the ranks of newspaper reporters to become a successful author and playwright. But in the hour of her final triumph she found life empty and achievement a cruel mockery.

Miss Early wrote the first chapters of "The Shining Talent" in Florida, where the heroine of the story goes to write her play. Some of the other scenes are in Italy, where the heroine goes on a vacation after her play has become a Broadway success.

Miss Early herself had just returned from an extensive trip abroad before beginning the writing of "The Shining Talent." She had visited the Holy Land, Italy, France and England. A former newspaper woman, she has become a confirmed globe trotter.

Back In the '90's' These Hempstead County Marriages Were Lasting

Back in the late '90's is not such a long time to think about, yet there's been much water run under the bridge in those years. No less has there been a change in the mental attitude of the public toward the sanctity of the marriage vow and one reads gladly of a wedding back yonder that still holds good.

On November 8, 1899, J. M. Sullivan, just turned 24, led to the altar Miss Ola Bumpers, a lass of sweet 16 the ceremony being performed three miles east of Hope, by S. C. Wiggins, a Justice of the Peace, in the presence of C. H. Goodlett, county clerk. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan are natives of this county and have lived here all their lives, except for a period of five years when they took the rambling fever and moved to Texas. But as they came back that didn't count.

The children of this worthy couple are all "home folks," too as many Hope members of the younger social element can testify: They are: Ruby Jack, Linnie Bell, Jim, Jr., and George Lynn.

In addition to their own little brood, the Sullivan home has been a haven of refuge for orphans since that home was established, and the milk of human kindness still is sweet in the veins of both them, sweethearts after all these years.

Lowman Ordered Seizure of Drugs

Treasury Official O. K'd Search of Baggage of Vice-Consul.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Assistant secretary Lowman, of the treasury department, said today that the personal baggage of Ying-Kao, Chinese vice-consul at San Francisco, was subject to search, and that he had issued orders yesterday to that effect.

After a search by custom officers 3,000 tins of opium were found in the trunk of Mrs. King-Kao, wife of the official. "The treasury orders were to search the baggage," Lowman said, and the order included personal as well as other belongings.

Lowman declared that the highest diplomatic official, though of unquestioned standing, would be subject to search if custom officials had the same advance information supplied them in the present case.

Parnell Refuses To Honor Requisition

LITTLE ROCK, July 9.—(AP)—A requisition by Gov. Horton, of Tennessee, requesting the return of U. G. Brown, of Hot Springs, to Memphis to face a worthless check charge was refused by Governor Parnell today.

Ground for refusing the requisition was that it was asked for a check given to pay a debt and that returning Brown would be equivalent to placing him in jail for debt.

Tourists Reach Washington Noon

A score of cars leaving Hope city hall Tuesday morning covered the Hope-Blevins territory during the morning, and halted at Washington at noon for a picnic luncheon, in the second annual farm tour of Hempstead county. No formal program was attempted during the noon hour, and at 1 o'clock the tourists left Washington for farms along the Ozan road, with the possibility that the swing through Columbus late in the afternoon would be abandoned for a more direct return trip to Hope.

Among the leaders of the tour were: County Agent Lynn Smith; President Rod, of the State Poultry association; Congressman Tilman B. Parks; Mayor Rufe Boyett, and Roy Anderson, president of Hope Chamber of Commerce, and K. B. Roy, agricultural editor of the University.

Some excellent dairy livestock and poultry were seen along the Hope-Blevins road, and many acres of thriving canteloupes, tomatoes and other truck crops. Cotton on the Blevins road appeared to be the best seen anywhere in Hempstead county in the last week.

Farmers' places the tour was scheduled to visit were: Jim Brown, Ruffin White, Jim Hendricks, K. B. Spears, the Bumpers place, C. F. Locke, D. M. Goodletts, Dr. Autrey, J. H. Johnson, Elmer Calhoun, W. C. Thompson, W. G. Stoy.

Crew Trapped As British Sub Hits A Smaller Craft

All of Crew Save Two Are Believed Caught In Death Trap.

HOPE IS ABANDONED

Admiralty Lord Says No Hope To Save Any of Crew Members.

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—The First Lord of the Admiralty announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that no hope could be entertained for the rescue alive of the crew of the submarine H-47.

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—The British submarine H-47, with 21 members of her crew believed to be trapped and dead, was sunk today in 240 feet of water in St. George's channel off the Pembroke coast to the west of Fishguard.

The undersea craft was struck by the L-12, a larger vessel and went down quickly, only two of the crew of 23 being saved. They were the telegraph operator and commanding officer, both believed to have been in the conning tower of the submarine when it was struck.

The L-12 lost one man, the chief signalman being missing and another is in a critical condition from injuries received when the two vessels crashed.

As soon as word of the disaster was received at the dock yards the tugs Resolve and Grappler hurriedly made ready to go to sea to salvage the sunken craft and if possible, tow it into Portsmouth.

Detail of the tragedy and how badly the crafts were damaged by collision were lacking in the first reports obtainable, but it is known that salvage operations at such a depth are most difficult and there is doubt as to the sunken sub being raised.

Caudle Seeks To Quash Indictment

State Railway Commissioner Files Motion and Demurrer.

LITTLE ROCK, July 9.—(AP)—A motion to quash the indictment against Reece A. Caudle, member of the state railway commission charged with an attempt to bribe members of the legislature, was filed by his attorneys in Pulaski circuit court today.

The motion sets up that the Pulaski county grand jury which returned the indictment was illegally drawn and empanelled, because the names of more than 6 members were carried on the grand jury list.

A demurrer to the indictment was also filed, setting out it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

The indictment grew out of an extended investigation by the Pulaski grand jury into charges that bribes had been offered in connection with the pari-mutuel racing bill passed by the last legislature. Caudle is at liberty under bond.

Willys-Overland Head Sells Stock

Holdings Taken Over By Group of Toledo, O., Financiers.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The personal holdings of John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Inc., in the automobile company, have been purchased by C. O. Meninger, George Jones and associates, of Toledo.

The new owner will continue the business along the same lines as formerly, it is indicated, though control of the company is theirs through purchase of the Willys holdings.

ADMIRAL EBERLE BURIED

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—The navy paid a parting tribute to one of its outstanding figures today as rear admiral Eberle, who died Saturday, was buried in Arlington cemetery with full military honors.

Federal Court In Carmen's Strike

Stepmother of Striking Carmen Face Injunction In Federal Court

Clara Bow

Eight months of married life with Robert Bow, father of Clara Bow, is enough for Tui Lorraine Bow, screen actress and radio singer. She has announced she will seek a divorce in Los Angeles, giving "I'm 21 and he's more than 45" as sufficient explanation.

Prohi Boss Sued In Marital Mess

Wife Alleges Has Been Guilty of "Extreme Cruelty."

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—O. D. Jackson, prohibition administrator in the New Orleans district and advisor to Federal prohibition commissioner James M. Doran, was made defendant in a separation suit filed by his wife today in civil district court.

The wife, Annie Ruth Luffey, Jackson, charged defamation of character, extreme cruelty and threats against her life by the prohibition official.

Miner's Strike In Full Blast Today

Company Attempt To Reduce Wages Leads To Walkout.

BONANZA, Ark., July 9.—(AP)—The strike of 75 miners employed by the Rhinehart-Barr Coal Co., who walked out yesterday following a wage dispute, continued today.

The strikers said the action was the result of an attempt on the part of the company to materially reduce wages. Officials of the company, however, say they are paying a higher schedule of wages than other companies in the same district are paying workmen.

Swedish Males House Workers

Shortage of Girls for Domestic Service Creates Jobs.

STOCKHOLM, July 9.—Males as maids of all work is the latest category in the list of Swedish employment. It is chiefly the shortage of girls who will accept domestic service in the country that has led the Stockholm Employment Bureau an official institution, to place young boys as house workers. So far the experiment has turned out well.

It began with a young man who had had some experience as an assistant cook in a Stockholm boarding house. He wanted a job in the country for the summer and was placed in a small summer hotel of the Stockholm archipelago as chief cook. He is well paid and likes it. Next, housewives who wanted maids were persuaded to try boys, and they all declared themselves satisfied.

"My man of all work is a find," said one housekeeper. "He sweeps, makes beds, and washes dishes as well as I could wish. I am now teaching him to cook."

As it is still difficult for young men to get jobs in Sweden, the domestic service outlet promises to be welcome.

NEW ORLEANS WORKERS TOLD BY JUDGE BORAH TO "BE GOOD"

COMPROMISE FAILS

Company Rejects Offer of Strikers To Settle Difficulty.

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—Judge Wayne G. Borah, in United States district court, announced shortly after noon today that he would grant the injunction sought by bondholders of New Orleans Public Service, Inc., restraining striking carmen from interfering with the operation of cars or doing damage to the company's property.

While Judge Borah was dictating his decision to a stenographer, a hurried mass meeting of leading citizens was called by Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe to consider the strike situation which again has become acute, following the flat refusal of the company to treat further with the union.

General Strike Threat

In the call the mayor said a general strike, in sympathy with the carmen, was threatened and that immediate action was necessary to prevent total paralysis of business and further action.

Refuses Compromise

The company sent its reply to the commission council of the city, which had requested that they accept a compromise offered by the strikers, saying: "In view of the rejection of our previous offer and our disregard by the strikers of our property rights, we have no disposition to longer bind ourselves by entering into a contract with the union."

Postoffice Robbed of Cash and Postal Supplies

JONESBORO, July 9.—(AP)—The postoffice at Brookland, near here was robbed of $16 in cash and parcels post packages to the approximate value of $100 last night. Entrance to the building was gained through a rear window.

Postal Department Faces Huge Deficit

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—President Hoover has been informed that the post office department faces an estimated average deficit of $85,000,000 over a period of the next five years.

Shake Welcomes Elks To Coast City

More Than 100,000 Have Unusual Experience Monday.

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—Los Angeles said "Hello Bill" in a big way Monday and treated 100,000 visitors to the 65th annual B. P. O. E., convention to a fine earthquake.

The tremor came at 8:45 a. m., just about the time most of the Elks were arousing themselves and preparing to start the opening day's program.

The Elks were taken by surprise. They had emulated the Shriners, who convened here last month, and had plenty of paraphernalia ready to "kid" Los Angeles in case of rain, but they had no inspirations to cope with an earthquake.

After it was all over—the quake itself lasted about 10 seconds and the "uncanny" feelings which comes with tremors, about five minutes—a few of the famed B. P. O. E., attempted humorous sallies, but in general they didn't chuck.

"Charlie Chaplin just threw another custard pie," was an offering from Illinois.

"Los Angeles is trying the old 'shakedown game,'" declared a gentleman from Little Rock.

And—in want of anything better to do a chorus struck up "We Faw Down and Go Boom."

The Elks started their convention with registration and a public meeting at Philharmonic auditorium at which Governor C. C. Young was chief speaker. Other dignitaries who delivered addresses were Mayor John C. Porter and Murry Hulbert, grand exalted ruler.

Helen Beats Helen at Wimbledon Tourney

Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs both live in the same California city, Berkeley, but they traveled more than 5000 miles to settle the world's tennis championship for women at Wimbledon, England. They played through opposite sides of the draw without losing a set and then met in the finals, Helen Wills winning easily in straight sets. Above you see them in action at Wimbledon, with Miss Wills on the right. In the inset is a close-up of the champion, fatigued registering on her face after a hard day on the courts. This is the third straight time Miss Wills has won the tournaments.

Bunion Derbyist Adds Running To List of His Many Professions

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(AP)—Peter Gavuzzi, jockey, carpenter, meat carver and interpreter in turn, ran across the United States to win himself a neat sum of money and discovered in this grueling sport the vocation he likes best.

From now on his business cards will read: "Peter Gavuzzi professional foot racer, specializing in runs from 100 to 5,000 miles."

This doughty Italian, reared in Southampton, England, placed second in the 1929 Pyle bunion derby from New York to Los Angeles and pocketed $10,000 for his efforts.

Gavuzzi feels no ill effects from the physical strain of running daily laps of 40 to 70 miles; in fact he thrived to the extent of putting on weight. He weighed 118 pounds at the start and scaled 120 pounds at the finish after running 3,687 miles in 526 hours. He thinks he could have reeled off 1,500 miles more without difficulty.

Arthur Newton, 47-year-old Englishman, and Guisto Umek, former amateur-wiking champion, also derby entrants, and Gavuzzi visited in San Francisco after the race. Their observations furnish interesting sidelights on this unique test of human endurance.

Gavuzzi was the spokesman. He said the race was misnamed because no bunions were developed. The most serious foot ailments were callouses, swellings and a few blisters.

Two pairs of rubber-soled, canvas shoes were worn out by Gavuzzi, while Umek, who placed third, went through three pairs of leather brogans. Newton dropped out after 800 miles, but was just about ready to be shod again.

John Salo, the Passaic, N. J., policeman, who won, used up a pair of shoes about every 1,000 miles.

Gavuzzi attended country dances after his day's run. Umek like the milman who took a walk on Sunday, relaxed by taking in the sights on foot.

A coast to coast race is a poor way to view the country, according to Gavuzzi, who intends to spend part of his earnings in "seeing America . . . sitting"

Modesty is the excuse Mary Nowitsky makes for introducing a new piece of beach apparel, a skirt of many colors made of joined squares of printed cotton in the gayest colors possible. The skirt goes on right over the bathing suit.

Melon Maids Photos To Appear Before Queen Selection Is Made

Five candidates for honor of being chosen Maid of Hope's annual Melon Festival have sent photos in to this office for use, and Star urges others in the race to do the same thing promptly, as it is planned to use the pictures prior to the date of selection of the Queen of the Festival.

One photo of a charming young contestant sent in could not be used because it was photo-stamp picture and could not be used for a newspaper engraving. As fast as received the pictures are sent to the engravers and will be used so soon as returned. Star wants the picture of every girl in the race. Every care will be taken to preserve the photographs and return them but we want them as soon as possible. Please send yours in now.

Where To Get Tickets To Vote for Maids In the Festival Contest

The success of the Watermelon Festival this year, as in years past, depends entirely upon co-operation of the business men and farmers throughout the county. The farmers have the most important part—they furnish the melons and without them there wouldn't be any Festival, either.

Merchants help is invaluable in making available the tickets to be used in selecting Maids for the Festival. Not all of them have been visited yet, nor have they called for tickets, but it is hoped before the end of the week to have them placed in every business house in the county.

Following is a list of the places where they may be had now. Each of the banks in Hope has a supply of tickets to deliver to merchants upon request, or any member of the Festival Committee will see that you get them if you suggest you want them.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Mrs. Morgan, wife of John Curtis Morgan, successful lawyer, deserts him for Bert Crawford, a rival friend, whom Morgan never suspects. Nan Carroll, Morgan's secretary, is deeply in love with Morgan and saves him from utter despair by cleverly forcing him into his work. For 8 months she acts as long distance housekeeper for him, winning the love of his child, little six-year-old Curtis Morgan.
Morgan breaks the news to her that he is divorcing Iris and marrying his "and Curtis" need for her, asks her to marry him.
She consents. Their farial marriage has continued three months when Iris, jilted by Crawford, returns.
Feigning illness, she tries to bring the bewildered Morgan to his knees. Nan, crushed, determines to fight and asks the doctor to remove Iris to a hospital.

at work in the library, his desk cluttered with notes and transcripts of testimony of the Black-hull case. The prosecution had rested at four o'clock. Morgan was to open the defense of David Black-hull, charged with the murder of his father, the next morning Wednesday.
But it was not the Blackhull case of which Nan had to speak.
"John," she said, in deceptively calm voice, "I think you had better go across the street to see Iris tonight."
The man's started eyes searched her tightly composed face. "I'm very busy, dear, but certainly I'll go—for a few minutes—if you really wish it. Naturally it distresses me to think of her alone over there, crippled—" cause of the fervor of his goodby hug and kiss. If she had salvaged Curtis' love out of the wreckage, all was not lost.

Whether it was because he was pathetically determined to please Nan or whether he really had an appetite for his dinner that night, Nan never knew, but he ate his his milk and chattered happily, in apparently the best of health and spirits.

bag, snatched from a drawer of the hall linen closet, was clutched to her heaving breast.
"What is it Miss Nan?" It was Maude O'Brien, plunging, half-dressed, out of the kitchen.
"Curtis—appendicitis!" Nan sobbed. "I'll this ice bag and bring it up to me as soon as possible."
"Poor lad! If he dies, it will be his own mother as killed him, stuffing him with God knows what trash—"

"Ruptured appendix. I believe
Dr. Drew will confirm my diagnosis when he gets here. Ought to arrive any minute now. I told him it was probably appendicitis...
While we're waiting, I want you to have a lot of water on the range.
Wait! I'll go down with you—get things started."

"What—things?" Morgan asked with white, stiff lips.
"Emergency operation," Dr.
Black answered curtly. "It would be murder to put him in an ambulance to take him to a hospital. Will have to be operated on here—unless of course, Dr. Drew disagrees with my diagnosis."

AN ARMY of 65,000

Loyal, Aggressive Employees

AT YOUR SERVICE

THROUGHOUT the history of the world, happiness and progress have been based on Service. No institution in our present-day civilization plays so vitally important a part as do our transportation agencies—and our railroads still are, and must continue to be, by far the most important transportation factor.

That is the reason railroad men and women, generally, are such wonderfully fine people—because they have the knowledge that they are engaged in providing a service that is both necessary and very much worth while. In no other occupation is there greater opportunity for genuine service.

Therefore, it must of necessity follow, that the most successful and progressive railroads are manned by employees who are most loyal, aggressive and progressive. It also follows that those railroads whose employees possess the finest esprit de corps, the highest morale, the greatest loyalty and aggressiveness, automatically become the most progressive and successful.

Missouri Pacific Lines and Missouri Pacific employees both are fortunate. The entire system is manned by one of the finest organizations in the history of the world—and the Missouri Pacific army of 65,000 employees is following the standard of a successful and progressive American institution.

Result—the public benefits almost beyond measure. Every individual in the organization is fully aware of the importance of team work and there are few armies—even military organizations—that can exhibit the singleness of purpose; the effectiveness of concerted attack; the unanimous joy in achievement that motivates the Missouri Pacific Lines army.

Shippers and travelers who have discovered these things have benefited and profited. Some have discovered them accidentally. Others have purposely sought to test out the Missouri Pacific Army. Without exception the army has been found ready and willing to attack the largest or the smallest problem of the shipper and the traveler in order that the Missouri Pacific Lines might be of greatest possible service and so live up to the motto that is emblazoned on its banners and written indelibly in the hearts of all—A Service Institution.

The Missouri Pacific Lines Army is proud of its railroad and the railroad is proud of its army. Both seek greater opportunities to be of service.

I am at your co-operation and assistance.

"I'm not thinking of her," Nan interrupted coldly. "I'm thinking of Curtis. I can do nothing. You must realize how my hands are tied." Her voice trembled slightly as she made this first reference to the incredible situation in which Iris had placed her. "But I love Curtis—very dearly. I can't stand by and see his health ruined. I want you to exact a promise from Iris not to give him a bite of anything to eat. Otherwise, John, Curtis' visits to his mother must be stopped, or—"

Morgan was gravely elated over the re-establishment of an entente cordiale between himself and his son and his wife and his son. It was a jolly, almost boisterous hour, one which Nan was later to try to live again in memory.

"It is appendicitis, John!" Nan sobbed, her icy hands clinging to his coat lapels. "I know. And it's all my fault—"

"Hush, Nan!" Morgan commanded sternly. "Come! We must go to him."

When they re-entered the room they were astonished to find the child stretched out on his bed, a wan little smile on his lips. "Bellieve me, I'm awfully, awfully awful, and then it got better quick."

"Proving you never can tell about children," Morgan chuckled, so tremendous was his relief. "Show father where it hurts, Son—"

Civil War Vets Are Proud Papas

Not long ago 19-year-old John Laubach of Toledo, Ohio, came forward as the youngest child of any Civil War veteran now living, but his claim has been wrecked.
Here are a few of the many pictures presented in the dispute.
Above is William Keller, 86, veteran of the 28th Illinois Infantry and now residing near Marietta, Okla., with his 16-year-old son,
is Charles DeMoss, 80, 146th Indiana Infantry, with his 9-year-old daughter, Lois Irene. Highest honors, however, are won by Justice of the Peace Edward A. Probst, 83, 162nd Illinois Infantry, of
son, Harold Cecil. Judge Probst married his present wife eight years ago when she was 18 years old.

New York Boxing Commission Suspends Max Schmeling

NEW YORK, July 9. (A. P.)—Max Schmeling, German boxer, and Joe Jacobs, his managerial choice, were ordered suspended today by the New York State Athletic Commission until such time as Schmeling fills a contract to box Phil Scott, Englishman, at Ebbets Field, New York, tentative date being set as August 7.

Death for Pitchers?

"Every time a pitcher goes into the box these days he takes his life into his hands," was the testimony offered the other day by one of the leading pitchers in the National League.

"I only hope the ball manufacturers won't wait until one of us is killed before they take that Australian wool they've been pulling over our eyes so long, out of that ball."

Other pitchers have plenty to say about the liveliness of the ball used this year. It seems even more resilient than last season. Ten years ago, the best of pitchers allowed something like two earned runs per nine inning game. Now the topnotchers are giving about four per game.

The pitcher quoted above says that when he broke into the big leagues the fielders were supposed to do a little work. Now even the bad one the pitchers throw come back at the infield like bullets, and curve balls go sailing over the wall.

Stoneham's Views

Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, substantiates what the pitcher says. Stoneham regrets the passing of the old pitcher's battles when one run meant everything and teams used to scheme, hunt, steal, hit-and-run and squeeze to get that tally over. John J. McGraw concurs. He says it looks like a rubber ball they're bouncing around out there.

Blue Larkspur's Boy

Mack Garner, who brought in Blue Larkspur in the Belmont and the Withers recently, says the mount is as gentle as a child, and a heart for speed and gameness.

"In the Belmont," says the former Montana boy, "I allowed him to loaf along the first mile, figuring to run it in 1:41. We did it in 1:41 2-5 while the leaders slipped along in 1:39. When they began to feel the rapid gait I called on Blue Larkspur and the rest is history."

Horses are all different, says Garner. Some require babying and others hustling. Some insist on going to the front and staying there and others want to follow the field to the home stretch, then to dash along like furries.

Garner believes in hand-riding more than whipping a horse. "The lash makes them swerve," he says, "and that costs ground. I like to let them go along with a fairly loose rein. The difference between a tight and loose hold is the same as running in light togs or a dress suit."

The Athletic's Confidence

One of the chief reasons why the Athletics are so far ahead this year, while the team is practically the same as it was during 1928, is the old confidence, if you'll believe Eddie Collins.

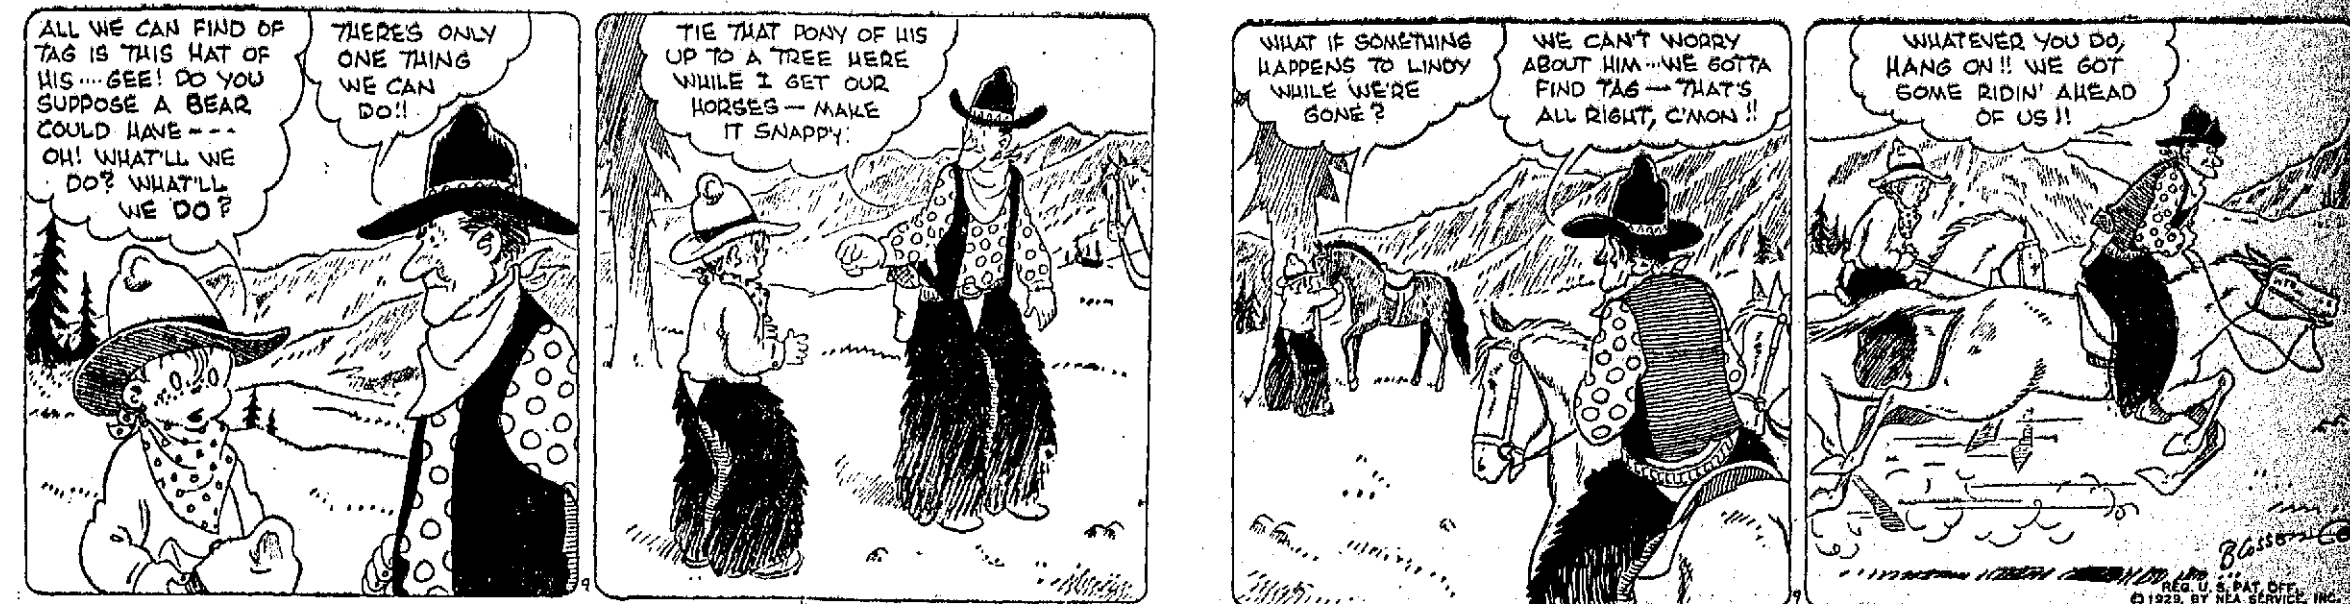

Eddie says the boys were good last year but weren't quite sure about it. Now you can't tell them anything different.

Eddie says that aside from the Yankees, the Tigers are the only team he can see.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS

It's a tough break for Lewis Albert Fonseca, first baseman of the Cleveland Indians, that the magnates have decided to cut out the most valuable player trophy this year.

For if you take the word of the Cleveland writers and the Cleveland rooters, the melodious Luigi would already have the honors roped and hog-tied.

In the Indians' spring training base at New Orleans, Lew expressed his confidence of this being the greatest year of his major league career, and from the present pace he is setting for his teammates, it looks as if he had the correct dope.

The value of having Fonseca on a ball team lies in his love for winning games. When his team loses there is no more lugubrious player in the clubhouse after the game than Lew. But when the Indians triumph, you'll hear Lew's clear tenor pulsating from the shower room.

To prove it, Lew hung up a .381 batting mark with Newark and the following year Cleveland brought him back at the reported purchase price of $50,000.

Second only to his baseball, Lew is always right at the top in stolen bases. He knows when and how to sneak from the bag and is as good a man in a double steal as there is in the league.

Lew came up to the Cincinnati Reds from the Coast League in 1921. He served as utility infielder, regular first and second baseman until 1925, when purchased by the Phils. Although he hit for .319 that year, the Phils let him slip to the International League—a blunder as only the Phils can make.

These lads may reflect on two ball players of other days who spent a season on the bench only to get their big chances in the world series and come through. George Rohe, an humble infielder who received no cheers during the regular season, leaped into the White Sox lineup in the world series of 1936 and was the hero of the series. Chuck Deal was only Red Smith's substitute in 1914, but he played an important part in the Boston Braves' march to a world championship over the prostrate forms of the Philadelphia Athletics, who 15 years later are just coming up for air.

Probably there are some Rohes and Deals sitting on the benches today.

Matlock - Lavell Bout Was Vicious

Texas Sport Writer Says Two Big Fellows Put On Real Show.

When Tex Lavell signed a contract here to meet Jack Matlock on Thursday night, July 11, he wired the glad tidings back to Waco, Texas, where he has been hanging out for some time. Pronto comes a letter from a Waco sports writer in which we are assured seeing a real fight, when these two big boys get together.

"Lavell walked around Matlock like a cooper round a barrel," the latter says. "But did he knock him out? Not any, that you could notice. And occasionally the veteran would unlimber and hand Lavell a wallop to pop his teeth. Neither was satisfied, with the draw decision, though to my mind that's the bout was. I look for it to have a different ending this time, though, as both men are eager to settle the question of supremacy."

Which makes good reading for Hope fans who for some time have been looking for a heavyweight capable of meeting Matlock and having an equal chance of winning. Others he has met here were willing and able—but they didn't have the old fox out-smarted. Lavell may not outsmart him, either, but he won't be caught napping if he can help it.

Just while speaking of scraps, don't forget that "Preacher" Walker and "Kid" Shimmy are on for five rounds which ought to be a sensation.

The contestant will enter a clothing judging contest while at Farmers' Week and compete for a trip to Chicago to the National Club Congress.

3. Sleeves must be set in type and bound with bias binding.
4. Hem should be from two to three inches in depth and put in by hand with the hemming stitch.

The dress will be judged on the following points:

Caterpillars Hurtful To Timber Growth

The walnut caterpillar is now attacking many local shade trees. In this section of the state, according to Elmer Murph. It was the feeding of this insect that defoliated so many pecan trees in Texas last year. Leaves were stripped from many trees two or more times, according to a report from the U. S. Entomological laboratories.

The eggs of the walnut moth usually hatch in less than a week, on the underside of the leaflets. The fully grown caterpillars, having finished their feeding on the leaves of the trees, crawl down the trunks and go a few inches into the soil. Here they change to the pupa, or resting stage. The caterpillars of the second brood of the season pass the winter in the latter stage.

This caterpillar can be readily poisoned with arsenic, according to Mr. Murph. A solution of one pound of lead arsenate, four pounds of hydrated lime and fifty gallons of water, applied with a spraying outfit will control them, according to the entomological report. The large caterpillars massed on tree trunks should be destroyed by crushing.

Boxes for receiving votes have been placed in several establishments in the city and customers are urged when making purchases to ask the merchant for tickets in the maids' contest. Nearly all business houses here have them and if they do not they will get them if you request it.

The Queen's Robe
Mr. and Mrs. Ludie Thomas, of the Ladies Specialty Shop, have advised the committee that they will present the Queen this year with her coronation gown and robes of state and that this year the gown and robes will, as they were last year, be most elaborate and in entire keeping with the spirit of the occasion. Many of the maids last year were costumed from this place, as they likely will be again on the occasion of the fourth festival.

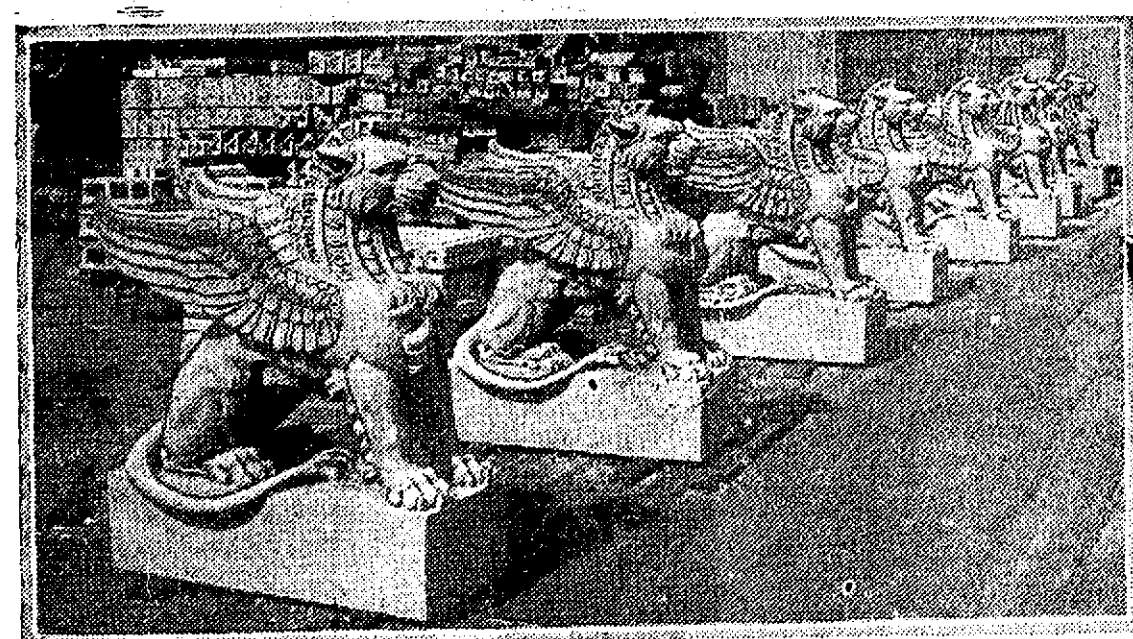

Maids Photos
Meantime, Star has not received photos of all maids in the contest. Some of them have been sent in and are now in the hands of the engravers and we would like very much to receive yours without delay. It will take a few days for us to have the engravings made and as Star desires to run each of the photos before the contest closes we ask again that candidates send us a photograph. It is a signal honor to be named as candidate for Maid of Honor at southwest Arkansas premier annual event, the Melon Festival and Star is proud to present to the world the likeness of many of the county's prettiest girls in connection with that event. Please send us that photo.

Citizen Coolidge, at 57

For the first time in 30 years, former president Calvin Coolidge celebrated his birthday in private life. But he was reminded of his public career by scores of telegrams congratulating him on his 57th birthday. After two trips to his office, Mr. Coolidge posed for the photographer on the front porch of his private "White House" at Northampton, Mass., where he is pictured above with Mrs. Coolidge and their dog. It was the birthday of the nation, too, for Mr. Coolidge was born on July 4.

"On Your Marks, Get Set, Fly!"

THIS litter of young griffins is ready to take off for a new job. They are to be watch griffins, guarding the entrances to an apartment house in the rapidly growing borough of Brooklyn. They are a hardy brood. Their mother was a clay mold, and they were weaned on fire. In the photo, they are lined up to bid "Goodbye" to the terra cotta kitten where they were born.
